NEWS FROM OUR HIGH STREETS

Women's Society launches website

The Women's Society Boutique in Hertford has just launched its first transactional website, allowing you to buy the brands you love online.

The store was recently voted by the industry's leading fashion experts as one of the UK's most inspiring independent retailers. Now, after nearly five years of trading in Hertford, the boutique has set up an online emporium of the most desirable wardrobe pieces for you to check out. Gorgeous dresses, shoes, handbags and gifts are all available to buy from brands such as Anya Hindmarch, Almost Famous, French Sole and Bourne with one simple click. Vooght's opens its Hoddesdon tearoom

Family-run bakers Vooght's has added a tearoom to its Hoddesdon shop it opened in November. The shop, on the site formerly home to furniture and gift shop Grayt Expectations, sells bread, rolls and cakes that are all made at its own bakery in Harlow. The family have roots in the industry spanning 300 years and the breads are made from recipes handed down by generations. Now shoppers can enjoy Vooght's produce on the premises – from sausage rolls and pies to baguettes and cakes. Vooght's also offers a catering service providing platters and small buffets, celebration cakes and cupcake towers.
